PROFILE

I am a hardworking and committed individual who is able to truly focus on a project whilst putting a high level of effort into the task. I am competent when working in a group and can take on a leadership role when required to, pushing for the best possible outcome with my group. I love to design and aspire to one day design and create costumes for both the Theatre and Film & Television. When I'm not at working or designing I work part time as a Graphic Designer.

My inspiration for my work comes from a number of different areas, both from the world around me and historical fashions and trends. I enjoy listening to music as I work and believe incorporating the story and character into my designs, whether it is original or from a script, is a key aspect of the work I create and share.

Outside of costume design, I also enjoy reading and writing. Some of my favourite authors are William Shakespeare, Jane Austen and Suzanne Collins. I write as a hobby and often take part and run writing events in online communities and have managed events with over 60 writers. I enjoy watching films, both new releases in the cinema and classics such as Star Wars.
